Rangam is a part of the firm's corporate practice group. He is also a member of the firm's crisis management and technology practice group. Rangam focuses on M&A, private equity, venture capital, and venture debt transactions, including share acquisitions, business transfers, asset transfers, and acquire transactions.

He regularly advises investor nominees and director representatives on governance frameworks, fiduciary duties, conflict management, related party transactions and other board-level responsibilities. Beyond the initial transaction, he works closely with investors and portfolio companies throughout the lifecycle of an investment, advising on follow-on fundraises, acquisitions, restructurings, commercial arrangements, regulatory matters, governance issues, shareholder disputes and exit processes. His practice extends beyond traditional transactional work and includes acting as a trusted adviser to boards, management teams and investors on strategic and high-stakes situations. He has also advised investors and companies alike on crisis management mandates, including shareholder and founder disputes, governance breakdowns, regulatory investigations, business continuity concerns, distressed situations and other sensitive matters requiring coordinated legal, commercial and stakeholder-management strategies.

He graduated from Symbiosis Law School, Noida in 2016.
